Welcome to the 2020 Catholic Social Ministry Gathering

“Our defense of the innocent unborn . . . needs to be clear, firm and passionate, for at stake is the dignity of a human life, which is always sacred and demands love for each person, regardless of his or her stage of development. Equally sacred . . . are the lives of the poor, those already born, the destitute, the abandoned and the underprivileged, the vulnerable infirm and elderly exposed to covert euthanasia, the victims of human trafficking, new forms of slavery, and every form of rejection. We cannot uphold an ideal of holiness that would ignore injustice in a world where some revel, spend with abandon and live only for the latest consumer goods, even as others look on from afar, living their entire lives in abject poverty.”

– Pope Francis, Gaudete et Exsultate (Rejoice and Be Glad), no. 101

Welcome to the 2020 Catholic Social Ministry Gathering, where more than 500 leaders, including bishops’ staff, representatives of religious orders and congregations, parish leaders, university and college faculty, students, and emerging Catholic leaders gather to witness to life and justice, gain knowledge and skills for ministry, connect with other leaders, build bridges, and advocate as one voice on Capitol Hill.

Inspired by their faith to pray, connect, learn and act on pressing domestic and global challenges affecting vulnerable and disenfranchised communities, Catholics attend this transformative Gathering to put their faith in action for the common good. For more than 30 years, this convening has offered opportunities to engage in intellectual, spiritual, and professional leadership development and formation to further resource and strengthen parishes, dioceses and communities across the U.S.

The theme this year is Bearing Witness: Life and Justice for All. The Gathering represents an important collaborative opportunity to bring together colleagues who work on issues impacting life and human dignity across the spectrum such as: capital punishment, human trafficking, family separation, incarceration, maternal and child health and many more. We hope this will be a chance to open our hearts and minds and create a space to work together towards the common good.

We would also like to extend a warm welcome to the 16 national Catholic organizations that work closely with the USCCB Department of Justice, Peace and Human Development to organize the CSMG. We are deeply grateful for their collaboration and dedication to the Church’s social mission. We encourage you to connect with them and are excited for you to participate in the engaging program we have put together that underscores the Church’s commitment to a consistent ethic of life. We hope that this time will be an opportunity to reflect and to find inspiration to build new bridges that help protect the life and dignity of our vulnerable brothers and sisters.

Bring your own water bottle. To better care for God’s creation, plastic single-use water bottles will not be utilized during meals or refreshments, please plan to bring your own, re-usable water bottle. Re-fill stations will be widely available throughout the Gathering.

Life and Justice for All
Regency Ballroom
“...If we seek the holiness pleasing to God’s eyes, [Mt. 25:31-46] offers us one clear criterion on which we will be judged. ‘I was hungry and you gave me food, I was thirsty and you gave me drink, I was a stranger and you welcomed me, I was naked and you clothed me, I was sick and you took care of me, I was in prison and you visited me’ (vv. 35-36). ... Our defense of the innocent unborn, for example, needs to be clear, firm and passionate, for at stake is the dignity of a human life, which is always sacred and demands love for each person, regardless of his or her stage of development. Equally sacred, however, are the lives of the poor, those already born, the destitute, the abandoned and the underprivileged, the vulnerable infirm and elderly exposed to covert euthanasia, the victims of human trafficking, new forms of slavery, and every form of rejection. We cannot uphold an ideal of holiness that would ignore injustice in a world where some revel, spend with abandon and live only for the latest consumer goods, even as others look on from afar, living their entire lives in abject poverty.” (Gaudete et Exsultate, nos. 95, 101)

It is our responsibility as Catholics to bear witness to the Church’s commitment to a consistent ethic of life in every corner of our society. We are called to protect the life and dignity of all those who are vulnerable and embody Christ’s image, from the unborn to migrants, our brothers and sisters around the world whose lives are threatened by war, poverty, racism, or climate change, persons with disabilities, and persons on death row.

As missionary disciples of Jesus, this mandate should be reflected in the way we live our faith, our family and public life as well as the communities we serve through the Church’s social ministries. It is through our active participation that we can continue to proclaim and bring the good news of the Kingdom of God to earth.

“May you be sowers of hope, builders of bridges and agents of dialogue and harmony.”
– Pope Francis, April 29, 2017

It is no secret that the Church can sometimes fall victim to polarization and disunity. As the faithful take up the call to respond to wide-ranging concerns, they sometimes perceive their work as competing, instead of contributing to a wider mission. What can we do, as leaders in ministry, to build bridges of understanding and unity? How can we help Catholics overcome division and work together to protect the lives and dignity of all people?

The panelists featured in this discussion are expert “bridge builders” who have worked in their particular ministry settings to engage Catholics in embracing a consistent ethic of life. They have successfully helped Catholics of diverse political persuasions to work together on issues of common concern. In this conversation, they will draw from their experiences to share best practices and tips. Following the panel discussion, participants break into small groups to unpack the conversation, hear additional best practices, and reflect on how to build bridges in their own ministry settings.

Transforming Communities with Restorative Justice

“Do not be afraid of asking for forgiveness and offering it. Do not resist that reconciliation which allows you to draw near and encounter one another as brothers and sisters, and surmount enmity. Now is the time to heal wounds, to build bridges, to overcome differences. It is time to defuse hatred, to renounce vengeance, and to open yourselves to a coexistence founded on justice, truth, and the creation of a genuine culture of fraternal encounter. May we live in harmony and solidarity, as the Lord desires. Let us pray to be builders of peace, so that where there is hatred and resentment, we may bring love and mercy (cf. Prayer attributed to Saint Francis of Assisi).”  – Pope Francis, Apostolic Journey to Colombia, September 8, 2017

Restorative justice invites us to see wrongdoing primarily as violations against the community rather than offenses against the law. Repairing the harm done requires that those impacted be at the center of the process when determining how to respond to violence or crime. Reconciliation contributes to the common good of the whole. The Catholic Campaign for Human Development (CCHD) has a long history of supporting these restorative efforts that place right relationship at the center and allow the human dignity of all involved, especially the poor and vulnerable, to be upheld. This plenary session will bring together two examples of this work for a panel discussion highlighting the impact and empowerment restorative justice can have on communities. Featuring CCHD funded groups Precious Blood Ministry of Reconciliation, of Chicago, and Citizens of Louisville Organized and United Together (CLOUT), attendees will be invited to join the conversation and learn how restorative justice and community organizing can help transform their communities.

Moderator: Alexandra Carroll, Communications Manager for Social Mission, Department of Justice, Peace, and Human Development, USCCB

Panelists: Julie Anderson, Coordinator for Communities & Relatives of Illinois Incarcerated Children and Orlando Mayorga, Re-entry Coordinator, both of Precious Blood Ministries of Reconciliation; Greg Tichenor and Karen Williams, both leaders with Citizens of Louisville Organized and United Together

3:00 p.m. – 3:30 p.m. Coffee Break (with dessert)
Ambassador Ballroom
Sponsored by Bread for the World

3:30 p.m. – 6:15 p.m. Skill Training for Interpersonal Conflicts and Difficult Conversations: Nonviolent Communication
(Diplomat Ballroom)

In order to bear witness to life and justice for all, we will learn and practice essential skills to address the urgent issue of becoming better at engaging conflicts with people we disagree with. From conflict across political parties, within our Catholic church, throughout our schools and homes, this intensifying struggle of conflict is becoming pervasive. People of faith have an opportunity to witness to the courageous love of Christ in these difficult moments and social spaces.

We plan to identify key troubling and destructive conflicts in our experience, learn about the importance of identifying needs and feelings, and practice the basic skills of nonviolent or compassionate communication to transform our conflicts and better build community. Nonviolent communication includes making observations, identifying feelings, discerning needs, acknowledging responsibility, and making specific requests. This method has proven effective in a wide range of situations and cultures. We will end with some time to name possible next steps as a community and as persons.

Facilitator: Mali Parke, Founder and Director, Peace Circle Center

3:30 p.m. – 4:45 p.m. Community Workshops: Group A (6 concurrent sessions)

3:30 p.m. – 4:45 p.m. 1. Migration-Based Advocacy on the Diocesan Level
(Empire Ballroom)

The migration issue has become an increasingly controversial topic, particularly in the face of divisive rhetoric and administrative policies that marginalize migrants. New policies make it more difficult for migrants to apply for asylum, remain together as families, and access important forms of support as they integrate into the local community. In the face of these challenges, we must advocate more effectively and seek to humanize the discourse.

This workshop will provide helpful, practical tips as to how you can advocate for migrants through direct advocacy, service-based advocacy, and public action. Advocates, service providers, migrants, and local diocesan leaders will tell stories from their own experience in this work and help to clarify some of the challenges and gaps in the advocacy world. Participants will brainstorm ideas, share their expertise and best practices with one another, and engage in a large group discussion to enhance creative thinking and share strategies to bring home.
Facilitator: Sarah Hoff, National CARE Coordinator, Department of Migration and Refugee Services Policy Office, USCCB

Presenters: Isaac Cuevas, Director of Immigration and Public Affairs, Archdiocese of Los Angeles; Lisa Lungren, Parishes Organized to Welcome Immigrants and Refugees Program, USCCB; Theresa Chamblee, Director of Social Concerns, Catholic Charities, Archdiocese of Indianapolis

3:30 p.m. – 4:45 p.m. 2. Racial Wealth Gap Simulation
Congressional B

Participants of this interactive presentation will identify connections among racial equity, hunger, poverty and wealth. The simulation is a good first step for those interested in learning more about structural inequality. In addition, participants will learn step-by-step how to use the Racial Wealth Gap Simulation at their parish, university, diocesan, or other faith-based organization gathering. By fully participating in every aspect of the simulation, participants will learn first-hand the best practices and challenges in leading this simulation.

Facilitator: Genevieve Mougey, Senior National Associate for Catholic Engagement, Bread for the World

3:30 p.m. – 4:45 p.m. 3. Encounters at the Crossroads of Life and Justice
Cabinet Room

Encounters at the Crossroads of Life and Justice will provide an opportunity to learn how the Church of Western Washington is building a broad collaborative commitment to the needs of poor families and communities. The workshop will provide specific examples of how collaborations with Catholic Charities, the Catholic Campaign for Human Development, the Archdiocese of Seattle, Catholic health care and Catholic education are beginning to enable Catholic leaders to undertake courageous encounters at critical parish crossroads of life and justice, spurring responses of advocacy and service. During this workshop participants will have time to a) reflect on and identify parish or organizational crossroad issues which may be calling for encounter, and b) identify potential and existing ecclesial collaborators willing to commit to encounters at the crossroads, together with poor families and communities.

Facilitator: Scott Hurd, Vice President, Leadership Formation, Catholic Charities USA

Presenters: Erin Maguire, MSW, King County Regional Network Builder, Catholic Community Services of Western WA; Patty Repikoff, MDiv, DMin, Pastoral Advocate for Mission, Catholic Community Services of Western WA

3:30 p.m. – 4:45 p.m. 4. Laudato Si’ at 5: Where we’ve been and where we’re going
Congressional A

In 2015, Pope Francis’ Laudato Si’ built on decades of Church teaching and elevated the environment as a moral concern, influencing individuals and institutions to do more to safeguard our common home. In the past five years much has been done. At the same time, the cry of the earth and the cry of the poor are louder than ever. This workshop will take a look back, a look around, and a look forward and offer participants a clear-eyed view of both the successes and ongoing challenges in implementing Laudato Si’ around the U.S. Past, current and potential projects will be shared to offer participants a toolkit of ideas to bring back to their communities.
Facilitator: Dan Misleh, Executive Director, Catholic Climate Covenant

Presenters: Kat Doyle, Office or Life, Dignity and Justice, Archdiocese of Atlanta; Kim Burgo, Vice President, Disaster Operations, Catholic Charities USA

3:30 p.m. – 4:45 p.m. 5. Restorative Justice at the Crossroads: Opportunities in Individual, Community, and Systemic Transformation

Regency Ballroom

The U.S. criminal legal system espouses that justice is achieved through punishment alone, and often by the harshest means possible. Restorative justice seeks to heal people and relationships impacted by crime and offers a framework for transforming systems at large. The Catholic Campaign for Human Development invites you to a conversation with Catholic Mobilizing Network and CCHD grantee Precious Blood Ministry of Reconciliation on experiences and learnings about the practical realities of implementing restorative justice in neighborhoods, parishes, and criminal justice, as well as current opportunities for systemic change. Presenters will point to resources and avenues to promote restorative justice in participants’ states and diocese.

Facilitator: Caitlin Morneau, Director of Restorative Justice, Catholic Mobilizing Network

Presenters: Orlando Mayorga, Re-entry Coordinator, Precious Blood Ministry of Reconciliation; Julie Anderson, Coordinator for Communities & Relatives of Illinois Incarcerated Children, Precious Blood Ministry of Reconciliation

3:30 p.m. – 4:45 p.m. 6. Preaching Justice in an Unjust World

Executive Room

Being “political but not partisan” is increasingly difficult in our polarized world (cf. Forming Consciences for Faithful Citizenship, no. 58). However—there is a political dimension to the gospel that our Christian witness must include. How we respond as individuals and communities can be subject to much disagreement, but that we must respond to injustice is not debatable. The Sunday homily is the primary opportunity to engage on these issues.

Facilitator: Deacon Peter Barbernitz, D.Min., Director of Adult Faith Formation & Evangelization, St. John the Evangelist Parish in Columbia MD

Presenter: Rev. Andrew James, Assistant Pastor, Columbia Baptist Fellowship in Columbia MD

5:00 p.m. – 6:15 p.m. Community Workshops: Group B (6 concurrent sessions)

5:00 p.m. – 6:15 p.m. 1. Meaningful Work—Necessary Element of Integral Human Development

Executive Room

The workshop will focus on how social entrepreneurship in conjunction with workforce development can be important in protecting the lives and dignity of persons who are most marginalized, e.g., citizens returning from incarceration, military veterans, persons in recovery, persons experiencing generational poverty and newcomers to the U.S. There will be an overview of initiatives and projects that exist within Catholic Charities and examples from collaborative partners. At least one specific, detailed case study will be provided.
Facilitator: Steve Bogus, Vice President Social Enterprise and Workforce Development, CCUSA

Cabinet Room

Frédéric Ozanam formed the Society of St. Vincent de Paul not only in response to the widespread suffering in France, but also as a statement that the future of the Church should be outward facing, not internally focused. In doing so, he established a deeply personal and intimate practice of charity that exists to this day, as well as an extensive body of writing and letters intensely concerned with injustice. Participants will learn how to implement lessons learned from Ozanam’s work and writings in their communities and ministries to poor and vulnerable people.

Facilitator: Ralph Middlecamp, National President, Society of St. Vincent de Paul

Presenter: Ray Sickinger, National Director of Formation, Society of St. Vincent de Paul

5:00 p.m. – 6:15 p.m. 3. Church and Unions Partner to Seek Justice for All
Congressional A

Presenters will share examples of three ways that they have sought to bring together Church and labor organizations to promote justice for workers and immigrants in year one of the Church-Labor Partnership Project: promoting just public policies, extending Church solidarity to workers organizing for justice, and connecting poor and low-income workers with family-supporting jobs. In addition, they will share both successes and challenges. Following the presentations, participants will break into small groups for facilitated conversations about their local situations and explore how they might implement similar programs in their communities, dioceses, and parishes (with support from the Catholic Labor Network, if desired). The large group will then reconvene to share ideas and compare thoughts and plans.

Facilitator: Clayton Sinyai, Executive Director, Catholic Labor Network

Presenters: Kevin Fitzpatrick, Director, Office of Justice and Peace, Archdiocese of New Orleans; Jane Stenson, Senior Director, Poverty Reduction Strategies, Catholic Charities USA; Fr. Ty Hullinger, Consultant, USCCB Subcommittee on the Catholic Campaign for Human Development and Pastor, St. Anthony of Padua

This workshop will explain what the consultation revealed; highlight practical tools and successful practices to bring about the pastoral conversion that Pope Francis has called for in our dioceses, parishes, and communities; and provide a forum for participants to visualize and hone their own response, while building relationships with peers across the country who can support its implementation.

“I urge your Christian communities to be protagonists of solidarity, not to be put off by those who, out of a narrow self-interest, sow selfishness, violence and injustice. Oppose the culture of death and be witnesses to the Gospel of Life! The light of the Word of God and the support of the Holy Spirit will help you to look with new and welcoming eyes at the many new forms of poverty which cause many young people and families to yield to despair.” –Pope Francis, Feb. 21, 2015

How can we bear witness to life and justice through our work to influence policies that affect vulnerable people at home and around the world? This panel will highlight some of the ways we can put Catholic social teaching in action through our witness to solidarity, justice, life, and peace in our communities as we work for policy change. In particular, this session will highlight the Church’s leadership and global witness on peace and disarmament, life-saving international assistance, migration, and advocacy with persons in poverty in the U.S.

1. The “Plague” of Gun Violence: Catholic Teaching and Policy Responses
Executive Room

Roughly 40,000 Americans lose their lives to gun violence each year. The bishops have been on record for decades in support of several reasonable measures of gun control to try to curb this devastating loss of life. This workshop will review the positions the bishops have taken and their grounding in Catholic teaching. It will then share some of the latest policy research on the most effective responses to gun violence. Finally, we will conclude with an overview of the federal landscape of legislative responses to gun violence, and other responses that Catholic organizations can take in their local communities.

Moderator: Michael O’Rourke, Policy Advisor, Office of Domestic Social Development, USCCB

Speaker: Daniel W. Webster, ScD, MPH, Professor of Health Policy and Management at the Johns Hopkin Bloomberg School of Public Health, Director of the Johns Hopkins Center for Gun Policy and Research, and Co-Director of the Johns Hopkins Center for the Prevention of Youth Violence

2. Migration Policy in Contemporary American Life: Examining the Human Consequences Through a Catholic Lens
Empire Ballroom

Debates related to migration policy have become an issue of intense scrutiny, mischaracterization, and confusion in recent years. Significant increases in federal funding for border security have contributed to the ongoing militarization of the U.S./Mexico border. Restrictions on asylum and efforts to limit admissions have had measurable humanitarian consequences. From a Catholic perspective, this approach is inadequate to address the migration phenomenon. This panel will examine current trends in migration policy, look at the ways in which such policies have affected migration along the border, provide an alternative Catholic-based vision, and highlight the precarious situation of many migrants who live in the United States. Of particular concern here is the new restrictions to due process at the border and the uncertain status of DACA recipients, whose legal standing in the United States is contingent on an upcoming Supreme Court decision and on the willingness of the Senate to take action provide permanent relief for this population.

Moderator: Ashley Feasley, Director of Policy, Department of Migration and Refugee Services, USCCB

Presenters: Anna Gallagher, Executive Director, CLINIC; Rosaura Santiago-Estrada, Communications & Criminology Major, Regis University

2:00 p.m. – 3:15 p.m. 3. Promoting Peace in the Sahel and Other Conflict Zones  Cabinet Room

Since 2012, a complex mix of armed groups have used violence, extremism, religion, and ethnicity to increase political power and influence over territory in the Sahel. In November 2019, Catholic Relief Services (CRS), USCCB’s Office on International Justice and Peace (IJP), and the Church in Mali, Burkina Faso, and Niger designed the Sahel Peace Initiative. This initiative includes creating an interfaith organization uniting Muslim and Christian leaders and their people to stop the violence within communities, resolve grievances, and build relationships that protect peace. Building peace is vital to stopping the spread of conflict in West Africa.

Moderator and Presenter: Steve Hilbert, Africa Policy Advisor, Office of International Justice and Peace, USCCB

Presenter: Marilyn Shapley, Senior Policy and Legislative Specialist, Catholic Relief Services

2:00 p.m. – 3:15 p.m. 4. Racism and its Effects on Society  Regency Ballroom

In Open Wide Our Hearts, the Catholic bishops note that many of the social problems faced by communities of color have "roots in racist policies that continue to impede the ability of people to find affordable housing, meaningful work, adequate education, and social mobility." This workshop will explore this idea by highlighting how specific laws and policies have discriminated against minority communities in the past, and what can be done to create more just social policy.

Moderator: Thomas Mulloy, National Director of Poverty Programs, Society of St. Vincent de Paul USA

Speaker: Kimberly Mazyck, Senior Manager for Engagement and Educational Outreach, Catholic Charities USA

2:00 p.m. – 3:15 p.m. 5. Catholic Social Ministries & Catholic Schools: Partnering on Parental Choice as a Pathway to Success  Bird Cage Walk

Catholic schools prepare children for this life and the next. Known for strong academics, discipline and spiritual formation, studies show Catholic schools have some of the best results in academics and graduates’ contributions to civil society as adults. But in the last ten years, Catholic schools have stepped out into a new arena, as parental choice policy has swept the nation. There are 56 publicly funded parental choice programs in 26 states, plus the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico. This new opportunity allows Catholic schools to expand their attention to a population of families who, until recently, considered tuition based schools out of their reach. In this workshop, we will explore how social ministry organizations and Catholic Charities agencies can build relationships to ensure that low income families have access to the social services they need, as well as the Catholic education they deserve.

Moderator: Jennifer Daniels, Associate Director for Public Policy, Secretariat for Catholic Education, USCCB

Presenter: Anthony Granado, Director for Government Relations, Catholic Charities USA

3:15 p.m. – 3:45 p.m. Coffee Break
3:45 p.m. – 5:00 p.m. Policy Workshops: Group B (5 concurrent sessions)

1. Climate Change—Indigenous Populations—Laudato Si’

This workshop will explore the implications of Laudato Si’, particularly in the context of the effect of environmental threats as experienced by indigenous populations. Recent experience from the Synod on the Amazon as well as other dialogue with indigenous leaders will be the subject of analysis and consideration for next steps.

Moderator: Ms. Cecilia Calvo, Senior Advisor on Environmental Justice, Office of Justice and Ecology, Jesuit Conference of Canada and United States

Presenters: Ricardo Simmonds, Environmental Policy Consultant, USCCB; Rev. Michael Carson, Assistant Director of Native American Affairs, Secretariat of Cultural Diversity, USCCB

2. Moving towards Nonviolence: Nuclear Disarmament and Challenging Militarism

The call to nonviolence is being heard from both the Vatican’s Dicastery for Promoting Integral Human Development, and from our brothers and sisters living in conflict zones. Thus, in this workshop we will engage with policy issues around nuclear disarmament and militarism. Disputes and hostilities among nations continue to mount, complicated by rapidly changing technologies, shifting geopolitics, and non-state actors. Subsequently we are witnessing the recent erosion of critical nuclear arms treaties and a massive increase in U.S. Pentagon spending. Disarmament and the promotion of a sustainable peace remain critical concerns for the Church. This workshop will help Catholics understand the nature of the nuclear arms treaties, the drivers of Pentagon spending, and what can be done, such as supporting the extension of the New START Treaty.

Moderator: Mr. Lucas Koach, Director, Office of International Justice and Peace, USCCB

Presenters: Dr. Maryann Cusimano Love, Associate Professor of International Relations, The Catholic University of America; Marie Dennis, Co-President, Pax Christi International; Daryl G. Kimball, Executive Director, Arms Control Association

3. New Approaches in International Assistance

The U.S. Agency for International Development has proposed a Transformation in how it promotes its goal of helping low income countries along their Journey to Self-Reliance. USAID aims to become more innovative, flexible, transparent and better stewards of its resources in order to increase its impact and help countries work their way out of poverty. This workshop will explore this new process and other Administration proposals and provide an up to date snapshot of the future of U.S. International Assistance.

Moderator: Steve Hilbert, Africa and Global Development Policy Advisor, Office of International Justice and Peace, USCCB

Panelist: Bill O’Keefe, Executive Vice President, Mission, Mobilization, and Advocacy

3:45 p.m. – 5:00 p.m. 4. Deadly Discrimination in Health Care   Regency Ballroom

This workshop will explore how the legalization of doctor-assisted suicide separates people into two groups: those whose lives we want to protect, and those whose deaths we encourage and facilitate. People with disabilities, minorities and other marginalized communities with less access to sufficient health care and supportive services bear the brunt of this deadly discrimination.

Moderator: Greg Schleppenbach, Associate Director, Secretariat of Pro-Life Activities, USCCB

Presenters: Julie Hocker, Commissioner, Administration on Disabilities, Administration for Community Living, Health and Human Services; Louis Brown, Executive Director, Christ Medicus Foundation

3:45 p.m. – 5:00 p.m. 5. Addressing Challenges to Faith-Based Adoption and Foster Care   Executive Room

St. James teaches that religion which is “pure and undefiled before God” requires caring for orphans and other vulnerable persons (1:27). The Church has put this teaching into practice by building adoption and foster care ministries that serve children, birth mothers, and families. However, faith-based child welfare services currently face a host of obstacles. The rise in private-independent adoptions which can raise some ethical and practical concerns (“best interest of the child”) have become increasingly popular. Other major pressures include faith-based ministries being forced to end their services due to increasing costs and legal challenges regarding religious convictions about the family. This workshop will discuss the challenges currently faced by faith-based child welfare providers and how people of faith can respond.

Moderators: Anthony Granado, Director for Government Relations, Catholic Charities USA; Lauren McCormack, Acting Director for the Office of Government Relations, USCCB

Panelists: Montse Alvarado, Vice President and Executive Director, Becket Fund for Religious Liberty; Debbie Snapp, Executive Director, Catholic Charities of Southwest Kansas

7:00 p.m. – 9:00 p.m.  Community Action Poverty Simulation  Diplomat Ballroom

Join Catholic Charities USA for a Poverty Simulation. The Community Action Poverty Simulation breaks down stereotypes by allowing participants to step into the real life situations of others, creating empathy and understanding about the hardships that millions of Americans face every day.

Poverty is often portrayed as a stand-alone issue—but this simulation allows individuals to walk a month in the shoes of someone who is facing poverty and realize how complex and interconnected issues of poverty really are. The Poverty Simulation is a tool that helps participants rethink the challenges that millions of low-income individuals must face each and every day. More importantly, this tool helps people identify areas of change that can directly impact the effects of poverty on individuals, families and communities.

7:45 p.m.  Free Movie Night!  Regency Ballroom

Please join us Monday evening at 7:45 p.m. for a free screening of Miss Virginia. Refreshments will be served!

Based on a true story, Miss Virginia stars Emmy® winner Uzo Aduba as a struggling single mother who is losing her fifteen-year-old son to the rough streets of Washington, DC. Unwilling to see him drop out and deal drugs, she places him in a private school. But when she can’t afford tuition, she launches a movement to change the system that is destroying him and thousands like him. Attacked and threatened by those who don’t want change—from corrupt politicians to the local drug lord—Virginia must discover depths of strength she never knew she had. Her efforts led to the creation of the DC Opportunity Scholarship Program, a federal education legislative priority of the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops. Attendees will also learn how they can host their own free community screening back home!

Catholic Climate Covenant

Since 2006, Catholic Climate Covenant has been at the forefront of the movement within the US Catholic Church to increase ecological awareness, give public witness, and implement Catholic social teaching on the environment. The Covenant’s resources, educational materials, and programs can help you answer the call to care for God’s creation and care for the poor.

Catholic Energies is a project of the Covenant that helps Catholic institutions transition to energy-efficient solutions, enabling them to reduce energy costs while helping them fulfill their commitment to care for our Common Home. We understand the unique challenges that Catholic organizations face, and we work closely with each client to design a solution that meets their unique needs.

Catholic Energies was in the news in recent months for completing its first two projects: Immaculate Conception Catholic Church in Hampton, VA, and the largest ground-based solar array in Washington, DC, benefitting Catholic Charities.

“Campus ministry is called to be a consistent and vigorous advocate for justice, peace, and the reverence for all life. All the baptized should understand that “action on behalf of justice is a significant criterion of the Church’s fidelity to its missions. It is not optional, nor is it the work of only a few in the Church. It is something to which all Christians are called according to their vocations, talents, and situations in life.” With this in mind, campus ministers have the responsibility of keeping alive the vision of the Church on campus as a genuine servant community that is dedicated to the works of justice, peace, and reverence for life, in all stages of its development.” – Empowered By The Spirit §73

Saint John Henry Newman, Pray For Us!
Frequently Asked Questions

Why D.C.?

• Our Church is committed to dialogue with civil society, including the political leadership of nations. Both as citizens and as Catholics we gather at our nation’s Capital to raise with national legislators our Church’s concerns for people in harm’s way.

• Washington D.C. is the base for many civil experts in current domestic and international affairs. D.C. is also the base for large numbers of Catholic leaders in areas such as economic and environmental policy and peace initiatives. CSMG draws on all of these resources and many more to form Catholic leaders for social ministry and advocacy.

Why January/February?

• Advocacy with Congress in January/February presents a strategic opportunity, often occurring at the beginning of a new Presidential administration or at the beginning of a new session of Congress. We make every effort to choose dates that fall after the President’s State of the Union address and before Congress’ first recess of the year for the President’s Day weekend.

• Winter is the most affordable season to host a large gathering of Catholic leaders in D.C. at a time when our advocacy can have the most impact on members of Congress and new legislation. Hotel rates are substantially higher from Spring through Fall, and we are committed to keeping the cost of the Gathering as reasonable as possible.

Why a Big Hotel and Conference Center?

• The requirements of hosting more than 500 leaders for four days of meetings in Washington, D.C. during the Winter mean there are no real alternatives to locating the Gathering at a major hotel. Colleges and universities only offer conference services and accommodation during the summer, when our advocacy visits to Congress would be much less effective.

• We make every effort to select a hotel consistent with our mission, our commitment to a just and living wage for employees, and in keeping with Catholic teaching concerning labor practices. Unlike many D.C. hotels, the Omni allows employees to organize in unions.

• Choosing a hotel close to D.C. with easy access to Metro aids transportation and the effectiveness of advocacy with Congress.

• Conferences like CSMG involve extensive contracts with hotels that include commitments to minimum expenditures on meals, minimum rooms filled, etc. By staying at our conference hotel, you support the ongoing success of CSMG.

• We offer the option to arrange room-sharing through on-line registration to make accommodation at the conference hotel as affordable as possible. Good stewardship of the investment in traveling to the Gathering means basing ourselves in a location where we can make the most of opportunities to pray, meet, and plan together, and to reach out to members of Congress.

Notes, Reflections, and Plans

“Jesus says in the Scriptures: ‘Truly, I say to you, as you did it to one of the least of these my brethren, you did it to me’. Your care for me and your generous welcome are a sign of your love for Jesus and your faithfulness to him. So too is your care for the poor, the sick, the homeless and the immigrant, your defense of life at every stage, and your concern for family life. In all of this, you recognize that Jesus is in your midst and that your care for one another is care for Jesus himself.”

— Pope Francis, Address to Meeting of Families, September 27, 2015

“Where life is involved, the service of charity must be profoundly consistent. It cannot tolerate bias and discrimination, for human life is sacred and inviolable at every stage and in every situation; it is an indivisible good. We need then to ‘show care’ for all life and for the life of everyone. Indeed, at an even deeper level, we need to go to the very roots of life and love.”

–St. John Paul II,
_Evangelium Vitae_, 1995, no. 87
“Through her visible reality, all that can be seen, the sacraments and witness of all us Christians, the Church is called every day to be close to every man, to begin with the one who is poor, the one who suffers and the one who is marginalized, in such a way as to make all people feel the compassionate and merciful gaze of Jesus.”

— Pope Francis, General Audience in St. Peter’s Square at the Vatican, October 29, 2014
“Whatever is opposed to life itself, such as any type of murder, genocide, abortion, euthanasia, or willful self-destruction, whatever violates the integrity of the human person, such as mutilation, torments inflicted on body or mind, attempts to coerce the will itself; whatever insults human dignity, such as subhuman living conditions, arbitrary imprisonment, deportation, slavery, prostitution, the selling of women and children; as well as disgraceful working conditions, where people are treated as mere instruments of gain rather than as free and responsible persons; all these things and others like them are infamies indeed. They poison human society, and they do more harm to those who practice them than to those who suffer from the injury. Moreover, they are a supreme dishonor to the Creator.”

The Department of Justice, Peace and Human Development of the USCCB wishes to thank the following organizations for their collaboration in presenting the 2020 Catholic Social Ministry Gathering.
