Senator Mike Enzi
United States Senate
Washington, DC 20510

Dear Senator Enzi,

As the respective chairmen of the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops' Subcommittee for the Promotion and Defense of Marriage, Ad Hoc Committee for Religious Liberty, and Committee on Domestic Justice and Human Development, we write in strong support of your bill, S. 2706, the Child Welfare Provider Inclusion Act of 2014.

As you know, our first and most cherished freedom, religious liberty, is to be enjoyed by all Americans, including child welfare providers who serve the needs of our most vulnerable – children. Rightly, the Inclusion Act protects the religious liberties and moral convictions of all child welfare providers. No providers are excluded by the Act.

Specifically, the Inclusion Act prohibits discrimination by the federal government and state governments (and their subdivisions) against child welfare providers on the bases of their religious beliefs and moral convictions. Thus, the Act would prohibit federal and state officials in the administration of federally funded child welfare services from excluding child welfare providers simply because of the providers' religious beliefs or moral convictions.

Unfortunately, in recent years, some religious child welfare providers in our country (including in Massachusetts, Illinois, California, and the District of Columbia) have been and continue to be excluded from carrying out adoption and foster care services because these providers believe that children deserve to be placed with a married mother and father. The Inclusion Act would remedy this unjust discrimination by enabling all providers to serve the needs of parents and children in a manner consistent with the providers' religious beliefs and moral convictions. Indeed, women and men who want to place their children for adoption ought to be able to choose from a diversity of adoption agencies, including those that share the parents' religious beliefs and moral convictions. The Inclusion Act recognizes and respects this parental choice.

We are, therefore, very pleased to support the Child Welfare Provider Inclusion Act of 2014 and urge your colleagues to join S. 2706 as cosponsors. The freedom to serve in accord with one's religious beliefs and moral convictions is foundational to religious liberty in our nation. Thank you for introducing this needed bill in the Senate.
