

National Religious Retirement Office

The National Religious Retirement Office (NRRO) coordinates the annual Retirement Fund for Religious collection and distributes the proceeds to eligible US religious institutes for retirement needs. The NRRO's mission is to assist, educate, and support institutes in addressing their current retirement realities and planning for the future.

Financial Assistance

Direct Care Assistance is an annual distribution to religious institutes based on specified criteria, including level of need. Funds may be used for immediate eldercare expenses or invested for future retirement needs. Applications are due by March 31. Awards are delivered in June.

Management and Continuing Education Assistance is an annual distribution of up to $5,000 per calendar year for financial and retirement-related education and/or the acquisition of basic management tools. Applications may be submitted between January 1 and November 30.

Services

NRRO Consultants can offer recommendations on eldercare delivery, financial management, facilities and property, staffing, retirement policies, developing a philosophy of aging, and more.

Retirement Needs Analysis helps calculate each participating religious institute's unique needs based on demographics, current cost of care, and assets available for retirement.

Other Resources

Statistics offer insights into the retirement needs and funding of US religious institutes. Each year, the NRRO compiles a statistical report and informational graphics based on the demographic, financial, and cost-of-care data submitted by hundreds of participating institutes.

Publications of the NRRO include two newsletters: Engaging Aging explores issues related to aging and wellness, and the Retirement Fund for Religious News focuses on retirement-planning topics and updates from the NRRO.
